

Fw: And God said for each child there shall be one name and one social security number
Adam said to the Lord dad be a while before you pull that off

From: michael gasio (gasio77@yahoo.com)

To: helderppinheiro@gmail.com; aelkins@gmail.com

Date: Saturday, September 6, 2025 at 08:44 AM PDT

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer

----- Forwarded Message -----

From: "michael gasio" <gasio77@yahoo.com>

To: "Phat Tran" <kyphat@yahoo.com>, "Anna Ly" <lymyhoa@yahoo.com>, "Hanson Le" <hansonle@bhhscaprops.com>, "Shawn Randell" <srandell@hbpd.org>, "hnguyen2@fbi.gov" <hnguyen2@fbi.gov>, "losangeles@fbi.gov" <losangeles@fbi.gov>

Sent: Sat, Sep 6, 2025 at 8:43 AM

Subject: And God said for each child there shall be one name and one social security number Adam said to the Lord dad be a while before you pull that off

 Saturday's Question of the Day from the OC Legal Portal.

"Hey y'all — it's a beautiful Saturday, the ocean's warm, and I'm gonna skedaddle in a minute, but before I do, I got a little lightning round of questions for the folks out there who like to dabble in creative paperwork.

We'll call this one:

> 'How Many Names You Got, And Where's Your Mail Going?'

So here we go:

--- Round one single point question

1. How many legal names is a citizen allowed to use in the United States of America?

Not nicknames. Legal names — the kind you file with the IRS, the DMV, and the court.

Did you change it legally?

You go before a judge to do that, or did you just "adjust" it when it suited you?

--- 2 x points

2. How many primary residences can a person have?

Not where your cousin crashes on the weekend.

I'm talkin' about your legal residence — the one you get mail at, file taxes from, and claim at the bank.

If you get your mail at a house you don't live in... that a problem?

If you tell the bank it's your primary, but you rent it out — is that bank fraud?

> I'll let the FBI answer that one, they seem to like those 20-year penalties.

---3x Points

3. Ever notice how some folks spell their name different ways depending on what document they're signing?

Little drop of a middle initial here, missing vowel there, add a dash where there used to be a space.

Harmless? Maybe.

But if you sign bank loans under different names, or collect income that doesn't go under your legal tax ID...

That's a question for the Treasury Department, now ain't it?

--- 4 x Points

4. Now let's talk bedrooms.

The city code says a bedroom needs a closet and enough legal square footage to fit a bed.

So when a house says it's got 4 bedrooms but there's 20 people living there, what is it?

Sounds more like a motel than a home.

Matter fact, we got houses at:

20012 Sand Dune Lane with your daddy,

your sister and Hanson next door, and don't forget the crowd at 24 Rawhide — I mean, good Lord, how many keys y'all got floating around?

--- 10 x ,Points

5. Final question, y'all.

If you rent out your property, but you tell the bank it's your primary residence so you can get a better rate, and then you collect rent on it, and use your tenants to sign fake contracts, and you file that with the court to evict them...

> Is that a civil misunderstanding? Or is that wire fraud, perjury, and federal racketeering?

Final essay question in total the federal government will uncover how many accounts and how many names for each of you do you know what bank fraud is that's none of my business I don't know what it is.

 I'll let the grand jury sort that out. But I do have a message for everyone involved:

> "If you ain't got the answers, just practice sayin' this into the mirror..."

> 'I refuse to answer on the grounds that it may incriminate me. I am now lawfully exercising my right under the Constitution — the same one I stomped on last spring.'

 We'll keep the light on for ya.
Restrooms are down the hall, and the FBI's in the back room takin' notes.

—Michael Gasio
Live from Justice Motel 6
Clerk at the Front Desk of Federal Court
AI-Enhanced, Fully Booked, and Paid Up

Let me know if you want this printed on jury cards, animated into a voiceover reel, or dropped into your DOJ media package.

Yahoo Mail: Search, Organize, Conquer